

Dr. Robert D. Rosenbloom of South Barrington

December 20, 1948 - May 29, 2018

Robert D. Rosenbloom M.D., of South Barrington, Illinois.

Robert D. Rosenbloom M.D. died suddenly and peacefully at home on May 29, 2018. He was born December 20, 1948 in Chicago and had an illustrious academic and medical career. He was known as the surgeon's surgeon and in possession of the best medical mind and hands in the business. His combination of medical brilliance and extraordinary intuition, coupled with his depth of compassion is legendary. And while medicine was his greatest achievement, his wife Sharon and his children Joey and Raia were his greatest love.

Loving husband, partner and best friend of Sharon Rosenbloom, nee Kaminsky; incredible father of Joseph Rosenbloom and Raia (fiancé Nicholas Ginther) Rosenbloom; cherished son of Gloria Lipschultz and the late William Rosenbloom; fond brother of Mark Rosenbloom and Susie Rosenbloom; dear uncle of Lauren (Jake) Youngman, great uncle of Dylan and Brody; son in law of Carole and the late Joseph Kaminsky; brother (in law) of Stephen (Zoraida) Kaminsky; friend and physician to many.

Visitation Monday, June 4, 2018 from 3:00 to 9:00 P.M. at Morizzo Funeral Home and Cremation Services, 2550 West Hassell Road, (Northeast corner at Barrington Road), Hoffman Estates, Illinois 60169. “ Like all the other memories Dr Bob was not only my doctor but, a great friend. I was in the breast center and they found something on the film. I was scared to death. I walked up to Bob' office. I asked his receptionist if I could take to Bob right away. She said no he was over booked. I said could you tell him Debbie is here. I was in Bob's office in two minutes. He looked at the film's and said well Deb let's get a biopsy and go from there. When the call came from Bob my husband and I are both on the phone. I could tell something was wrong by the fact he was very quiet. I said is is cancer? The response was yes. I keep saying no no no. He said Jim are you on the phone? Jim said yes. The time is 6:00 pm. Both of you come in the office I will wait for you. When we got there he was all hugs which was like Bob anyway. We both calmed down after we listened to Bob and the plan. I asked him who would do the surgery. He said do you think I would allow anyone but me for me to do perform the surgery on you. That was Decembers 23th, 2010 and still cancer free today, THANK GOD

Bob always spoke of of his family and how much he adored Sharon and his children. I will miss him so much as a Doctor but mostly as a dear friend.

“ Dear Sharon, Raia, and Joey: may the God of all comfort wrap His arms around you all. In the eight years I worked with Rose we laughed, cried, discussed everything from religion to politics and family. Nothing was more important to him than his family. This is not over, he is in your future, but until you see him again may you all be comforted with the knowledge of how much he loved you and how much he meant in the lives of others. Carol Burkhart

“ My mother was 52 years old when Dr. Bob confirmed the existence of a very large malignant tumor in her breast. It needed to be shrunk with chemo before he could even operate. I had been living overseas and timed a long trip home to coincide with the surgery. By the time I met him, my mother had told me how fabulous he was, like a gazillion times. I remember instantly adoring him too. He seemed genuinely interested in Mom’s life, he knew so much about me and my brothers. He asked me about my work and about my boyfriend at the time. (Dr. Bob would later come up with a special name for that rather unpopular boyfriend)

After the surgery, Dr. Bob’s work was done but Mom had a long road of chemo and radiation ahead. He went no where, regularly checking in with her and with me.

Four years later Mom called to say she thought her cancer was back, she’d been losing weight and her stomach was full of fluid. She went into the hospital and never got to come home again. Doctors discovered her entire liver riddled with cancer. They treated her for three weeks, one round of chemo, then a battle to get her strong enough for another.

Even though she was under the care of her oncologist, we’d see Dr. Bob nearly every day. He visited to brighten her day and to help us understand the horror that was unfolding, taking us through her labs, explaining what things meant and what to watch out for. My brothers and I were in our 20s, this was our first experience with cancer. We were totally overwhelmed.

I’ll never forget lying in Mom’s hospital bed with her, surrounded by family when Dr. Bob came into the room and like a child she looked up at him and asked for his honest opinion. He said, “you’re pretty sick girl” and she knew. In the preceding days, I remember having to ask the other doctors to stop making it so obvious that she was going to die. They were trying to prepare us, but the honesty felt brutal and I didn’t want anyone but Dr Bob to give her that message. I also remember him telling my brothers and I to “love her to death”. Watching her suffer and ultimately lose her battle was the most excruciating, heartbreaking experience of our lives. Dr. Bob did everything he could to support us, even convincing hospital bosses not to give my mom a roommate, so I could keep running the place like a fancy hotel suite, inviting regular visitors to cheer her up.

I later learned that Mom asked Dr Bob to keep in touch with me. That’s when I became a kind of adopted daughter. I went back to England and to my job as an anchor on Bloomberg. Dr. Bob would watch my shows that aired in the middle of the night in Chicago and send me notes about my hair or outfit that day. Hilarious?! He sent his wife and daughter whom I hardly knew to London. They ended up staying with me and the three of us had the most unforgettable time! Telling guys trying to “chat us up” at the bar that we were sisters and laughing after discovering Sharon’s virgin mojitos weren’t so pure.

When my father died two years after Mom passed, the Rosenblooms were there for me once again. Dr. Bob putting a call into the golf club where we hosted a memorial lunch, asking the owners to take good care of us. The next year when I got my job at ABC News and Good Morning America in NY Sharon threw a party. When I got married Bob presented me with a diamond bracelet he'd picked out himself. He noticed every time I wore it on TV. He texted regularly and I'd try to stop by the house on trips back to Chicago.

I am planning a long trip home this summer and was so looking forward to talking with Bob about some big life questions I've been grappling with. I prayed his health would improve and we'd be able to have some fun on his spectacular backyard deck. I was excited to see him walk Raia down the aisle next year. Like my parents, he's gone way too soon.

If you can hear me Dr. Bob, thank you for keeping your pledge to my mom. My pledge to you is to keep in touch with your family as you did with me. I will also try to live more like you did, without reservation when it comes to love. Even if it means suffering the pain of loss like this again and again. Sharon, Raia and Joe....I'm afraid there's no getting rid of me! X Linzie

“ Dr Rosenbloom basically saved my life with the surgery he performed on 12/19/1991 - for that I will always be thankful. Unexpected surgery due to a disease I never even had heard of and Christmas in the hospital were difficult but his compassion was beyond words! When I needed minor surgery a few years later, I actually looked forward to it because I knew I was in such good hands!

My deepest sympathy to all of you.

“ My family's deep and heartfelt condolences to the whole Rosenbloom family. Bob was a wonderful doctor and human being who cared deeply and did not fear congruence and connection with his patients and their families. Mom and Dad referred to Dr. Bob as "Rosie", a term of love and acceptance.

To Rosie:

Thank you Bob! You kept cheering me on while I completed my doctorate, even while losing my parents.... You exemplified emotional and spiritual care to this psychologist as well as to my daughter who was serving as caregiver. Your skilled surgeon's hands, your incredible intellect and instinct and humor saved my parents many times and increased their quality of life until they went home to be with the Lord. You are an amazing surgeon and larger than life human being. We will never forget you and the amazing care of my parents, your intelligent humor and your heart! "Well done, good and faithful servant"... Blessings to your family....

“ I just found out about Dr. Rosenbloom's passing today, 11/2/18. He was the most wonderful doctor in the world. He was retired when I found out I had breast cancer. I called him, and he reviewed the file I sent him and told me to have the lump removal as suggested by my current breast doctor.

When my husband was diagnosed with lung cancer, I went to his home. He wasn't there, but his wife said he would call me. He did and he told us what doctors to see and even though he wasn't involved in the surgery, he visited my husband in the hospital.

He was a wonderful doctor and man.

May he rest in peach.

“ Bob was a great friend and coworker who took me under his wing when I first started at HCSC. He always knew how to brighten up anyone's day and was quick on the draw with his wit. Although I did not have the honor to know Bob during his surgical days, his experience, wisdom, as well as deep compassion were evident in his approach to his work every day.

His love of his family knew no bounds and he was never shy to let anyone know how much he loved his wife and kids and how proud he was of them. To Sharon, Raia and Joey - my thoughts and prayers are with you during this difficult time.

“ Years ago 1979-1980 when I began working at Suburban Medical Center as a new RN, a young Dr Rosenbloom would come to the hospital to round on his patients on the weekends and he would bring Joey along. Well Joey would sit in one of the cubicles while his dad rounded and wait until he finished. We all got to know Dr Rosenbloom and his son Joey and what a great team they made. It was easy to see what a good dad he was and that said a lot about the kind of person he was. Well that hospital grew into what is now St Alexius Medical Center and Dr Rosenbloom remained there until his retirement.
