“ Jeff wasn't just a coworker to me—he was someone I truly relied on every single day.

As a master technician, Jeff set the standard. I knew that if a job was in Jeff's hands, it was going to be done right. No shortcuts, no guesswork—just skill, experience, and pride in his work. That kind of consistency is rare, and it's something I never took for granted. But beyond his talent, what I'll remember most is the kind of person he was in the shop. Jeff had a calm, steady presence—especially on the tough days when everything felt backed up and pressure was high. He didn't complain, he didn't make excuses—he just got to work and found a way through it. And somehow, he could still bring a little humor into the middle of it all.

We spent a lot of time side by side at INFINITI, and those everyday moments—talking through jobs, figuring things out, even the stressful days—those are the ones that stick with me now. He made my job easier, not just because of how good he was, but because I knew I could trust him.

Jeff was the kind of technician every manager hopes to have, but more importantly, he was the kind of man you're lucky to know. I'm grateful for the time we had working together, and I'll carry that with me. He left a mark on that shop, and on the people in it, that won't be forgotten. I still can't believe you are gone. You will be missed!

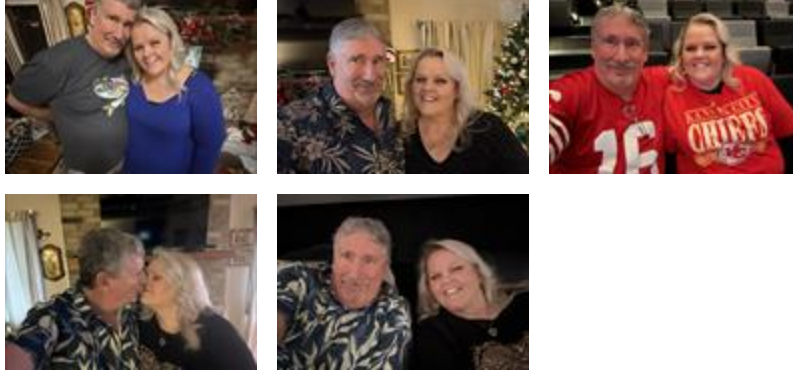

Rest easy, Jeff.

“ We have lost someone else who has been a great part of our lives. Jeff was one of my favorite uncles. I got to know him and Jennifer when they were in High School. Jennifer had a pet tarantula. Jeff would buy cars and repair them to sell them. That was his passion-being a mechanic. I got to see them evolve, have kids, when they moved to Missouri I lost track of them. My best memories of him were him in High School. He will be missed.

“ No matter where David & I were with Jeff & Sherry, Jeff's affection for Sherry & her family was always evident. He was always respectful & always wanting to be sharing & giving of his time & anything he had he shared. His love of our beloved Sherry was so obvious in all situations. Now we can't even imagine any activity with Sherry without him. He was one of those rare, true good men & loved God with his whole being. Wow! What a man! We will be grieving with you all for a long time. Fly high Jeff, we know you are!
