“ Whenever you needed a definitive answer that was right the first time, you called Dave. He is an inspiration to many people to be the best person you can possibly be. Rest in Peace, Dave.

“ Dave will be missed and never forgotten. He was always the best person to have on your team, hands down. In the face of any network issue, you would never want to sit in opposition with him, but be his ally. It goes without saying that he taught me a lot as I'm sure he taught many of us the things we know today about networking. I'll surely miss you Dave, God bless you.

“ I worked with Dave for many years. He was a tireless partner in a crisis situation who would get things fixed sometimes almost magically. He fought for what he believed in professionally and really knew his stuff. His wit and knowledge will be especially missed.

JT Thompson - July 09, 2013 at 05:59 PM

“ Dave was truly in his element during his days at Motorola, where much of the world depended on him day in and day out. His work family was huge and the respect they had for him was just as huge. He taught us all how to be better engineers! His love of movies and sports was famous in the office. He always loved when his Twins beat up on the White Sox He will be missed but never forgotten!

Rob D'Alessandro - July 09, 2013 at 02:50 PM

“ Goodbye Dave.
We'll miss your technical knowledge and life stories that made us realize there is more to life than bits and bytes.

Art Janek - July 09, 2013 at 02:44 PM

“ Dave will be missed, his joking, his anecdotes. As a coworker I was always amazed at his memory! If you ever needed assistance on an old system Dave was the one to ask and he had the answers.
Goodbye old friend!
