I remember Chia as a humble and soft-spoken girl. She had a heart of gold and loved everyone she met. She'll surely be missed!

Reshma, hope you're reading this. You're like Job of the Bible. God took everything away from Job and inflicted his body with disease.

God is infinite in wisdom and is always in control. We may never see the big picture but God does. God gives and takes away.

No matter what happens, always trust God's wisdom.

“ Chia, a friend, a guide in my new world, always ready to help and give. Someone with the sweetest smile and bright little eyes. I had my first Frappuccino with you. Hanging out with you was super fun as you took care of me like an elder sis. I never had to ask, you just knew if I needed something. Trying out new outfits and new shoes, you were the best company. I am your family and the love I got here cannot be said or measured. You leaving us, I still cannot believe. You were an angel on earth and now I can't imagine us parting ways and you going to a different world. Why God? This is not done. How can you do justice to a mother who lost both her kids. She did everything she could to keep them safe and well. So many sacrifices made to give them a better life and now she is left alone. I cried and cried and wished time could go back when Chia was still here, a daughter and a mother. Why so much pain and suffering? I want to pray for giving strength to Ma'am but how much. She already had suffered enough and now another loss. Nothing could stop her tears or ailing heart. We can't even imagine her pain. How can we console a mother when the only thing that can comfort her is to see her child wake up and see another morning. This is such a sad moment for all of us.

O Lord, our Almighty..Noone knows what plans you have for your people. Please help Ma'am find her peace. She has been through a lot. Please give her strength. Please give her a reason to smile, a reason to hope, a reason to feel blessed. Please alleviate her pain and sufferings. Give her your blessings. May the departed soul rest in peace.

“ Our dear daughter has slipped the surly bonds of Earth to touch the face of God. She leaves a huge emptiness in the hearts of all of us who loved her, many who were her friends, and even more who just had a glimmer of her through our family. May her soul rest in peace and may God grant us all the strength to bear the pain of her loss.

“ I have never met Deepika, but have seen her grow thru the photos shared by her mother, Reshma.

We have come a long way through life's journey. We perhaps will never know how God plans our life. Why some of our younger ones pass or taken away right before our eyes, what was their need to die before we pass through our life's circle. Should we lose our faith in God? Do we say there's no God? Are we just wasting our time doing His service through our belief in God?

No, we have to have faith in God, He created us in His image, so we need not question God, we were made to serve Him and it is up to God how much time he gives us on this earth which is not our permanent home, it is God who adds each day to our lives or subtracts from some of our loved ones. These are all reminders how short and fragile our life is on the earth, so it is important to continue our walk on this earth with God, holding God's hand and finish our work be great or small, heavy or light. Without God we are nothing, life will not be worth living. Tragedy like this should make us strong, perhaps these questions and zig-saw puzzles would be answered when our end is near.

So let our lives be pleasing to God who is the master of this universe, may Deepika's life be sweet smelling in the presence of our Lord Jesus. Blessings on her lovely daughter and mother, Reshma. May we all be of good and strong support to both of them. God bless you all.

I miss you. I'm still in shock... saw you Monday and last text was on Tuesday morning so it's so surreal. I could still see your shining face and smile. I could still hear your voice. It doesn't seem real... My heart pours out to your family, especially your mom and daughter. I love you my friend. You have been a Blessing in my life. Sleep in Peace. Clinging on to the Promise of that Glorious Day when I can see you again where there will be no more tears, no more pain, no more sorrow. 🙏😭😭 - Hannah S.
