“ My fondest memory dates back to the winter of 1967. Not the BIG, crippling snow storm but one that followed. I was working at my parttime job and had to take two buses to get home. It was snowing pretty hard when I left my job and by the time I got to the corner for my second bus, they were no longer running. I walked the 2 or 3 blocks to the Colello home. I had been walking into the wind and my eyelashes were frozen together. Mrs Colello welcomed me in with a hug and began taking care of her "frozen snow girl". She was so warm and kind. I spent the night feeling so at home. That special memory will last a lifetime.
