“ My mother was not afraid of heights unlike myself. When I was 8 we stopped at the Grand Canyon on our way to California. I saw it from the car. I refused to get out for a better view. Mom, of course, was out there on the precipice taking photos.

When I was 16 my Mother was one of the chaperones on our Girl Scout trip to Europe. Well, there we were on the top of the Eiffel Tower. Mom opens the door to get a better look from the railing. She dragged me out, but I was not happy about it. I spent 30 seconds out there.

Then there was the Leaning Tower of Piza. At that time you could walk all the way up to the top. The last level was without railing. I had to rush to catch up to my mother who was already out there. All that walking with her bum leg from polio and she was out there taking pictures again.

“ A memory from a trip to Minnesota. I was 2 years old. For some reason my parents, Frank & Dorothy decided or maybe I insisted I ride with my Uncle Ray & Aunt Teresa.. Well, my aunt & uncle also became the bearers of my potty chair which we used on the side of the road. Way back then (1949), the highways were only 2 lanes.
