Oh Priya. இன்று தான் நீ பிறந்ததை பெரியாழ்வார் கண்ணனை கொண்டாடி யதை போல் நாங்கள் கொண்டாடிய கோலம் இன்னும் கலையவில்லை. அதற்குள் கனவு போல் எங்களை விட்டு பிரிய எப்படி மனம் வந்தது எங்கள் குல முதலே. கனத்த இதயத்துடன் உன் சித்ரா சித்தி

“ ப்ரியமான ப்ரியா.,
உன்னுடைய பிரிவு மிகவும் வேதனை தருகிறது. அனிருத்
முதலில் usa வரும்போது நான் மிகவும் கவலையில்
இருந்தேன், அப்போ நீ எனக்கு போன் பண்ணி 2 மணி
நேர தூரத்தில் நான் இருக்கேன் கவலை படாதே
என்றேய் உன் வார்த்தை எனக்கு நிம்மதி தந்தது.
எப்பவும் நரசிம்மா நரசிம்மா என்று
சொல்வாயே. இப்போ நரசிம்மர் மடியில் ப்ரகலாதன்
போல அமர்ந்து கொண்டாயா?. உன்னை பிரிந்து
வாடும் உன்

“ I still remember, September 2021, you visited me in Canada just 3 days after I landed; little did I know that would be our final meet. Rest in Peace akka... ❤️ You have gone through so much, you were definitely a fighter. God didn't want you to suffer more... May you bless all of us! Will miss you and your love for nature a lot!!

“ From Karthic Raghavan:

Priya is one of the pure and kind hearted person I have ever met in life. I always wondered whether she has magical glasses to see through only the good in other people - never misses a chance to appreciate. Her exuberant personality would bring colors to even a dull morning during our bike ride to school in our high school days. In our school days when we were short of money to buy a cricket ball she was always our go-to person and she was always was glad to help even though she was not a big fan of the game. The last time I met her in person few years ago I was amused to see that she has never changed a bit in all these years. She will live forever in our cherished memories.

“ From Archana:

Those who know Priya would agree that she was an epitome of positivity. She always exuded good vibes. The last time I met her in person was at the end of April at Anandhi's house. She walked in with a big smile and high energy. We talked endlessly about our school days. When it was time for me to leave for the airport, she shared with me a peacock feather for good luck. As I was about to get into my uber ride, she also handed a feather to the Uber driver, wishing him and his family good luck. That is the kind of person Priya was, always a well wisher. We will miss her dearly and cherish all the happy moments we've shared.

“Where do I start? Trying to cram decades old relationship into a few minutes is difficult. For those who don't know me, Priya is a childhood friend of mine who I have known since sixth grade. Her personality has always been cheerful, energetic, and fun-loving. Her zest for life is unfathomable and contagious. I would like to share with you a few memories from our school days. One of the fun memories I have of our childhood is visiting the Island Grounds Exhibition in Chennai; I thought she was interested in going on all the different rides and carousels but I realised only later that the primary purpose was eating Panju mittai (cotton candy) and masala Papad (appalam). She had little interest in going on rides.

Another memory that will always stay with me is her persuading me to watch her favorite actor's movies (then Karthik, and now Surya). To watch movies, we must have burnt many miles visiting nearly all the theatres in the Chennai area, starting from Valsarawakkam all the way to Mount Road. No theatre visit was complete without the accompanying ritual of eating kothu parota at Saravana Bhavan (Peters road) whenever we touch any theatre near the Mount Road area; or the Ashok Pillar Saravana Bhavan if we are near the Ashok Nagar/Vadapalani area. Paneer soda is her favorite drink during school day; the ordeal we went through to save money during the week so we can buy it on Saturday (half-day) was hilarious.

I apologize mama if you hadn't known that Priya was our banker. We all owe her a lot. The boys would invariably turn to her for replenishing lost cricket balls, tournament entry fees, broken bats, cycle tube to make a ball etc. Also kept me on a steady diet of veg puffs, paneer sodas and Pepsis.

Our night study sessions were always memorable. We maintained a night study session since 9th grade, never giving up on it even when we pursued different majors at Anna Adarsh. When Priya used to join me at 9:30 or 10:00, we would start with a strong determination that it was going to be a night out session of full study. My mom always prepared tea for our night study and told us to drink it. Around 11-ish, Priya would announce it is time for her first round of tea, and around 11:30, she will say she will take a quick nap and ask me to wake her up. Either I'm inefficient or I haven't figured out the art of waking her up; Used to be a constant mock battle between us where upon waking the next morning, Priya will accuse me of letting her sleep, which I will deny. I wish I had a chance to wake her up again one more time.

When Priya sets her mind to do something, she will always succeed. She was able to fight the illness against all odds and be there for Adith and Rajan because of this quality. Her sole focus was being there for Adith and being a part of his growing up. She always mentioned she wanted to be there until he started college. It would not have been possible for her to fight if it weren't for the love and support of her family - Mama, Mami, Ram & Arthi, Lakshmi & Srikanth; thanks for being there with her as a part of this journey and providing your love and support.

Rajan and Adith - trust that she will always be there to guide you. Along with her will power, Priya was able to fight against this challenge thanks to your determination, courage, and support. The best healer is time, so stay strong. We're all here for you always.

To conclude, I only want to say that, Priya, you are and will always be my only precious and loving friend. I am grateful for all the love and memories you have filled my life with, and I will miss you dearly. Love you di.

“ I love you so much Perima. During my childhood you, me and our family used to go to marina beach then eat at Eden restaurant. You introduced me to my favourite dish corn on toast. Our night time antakshari is my favourite times. In this world I love two sweetest voices. One is my mother's and the other is yours. Hereafter where will I hear your voice. I will miss you so much perima. Love you loads. I believe that you will be with me forever- Harshavardhini.

“Haripriya, my friend, was someone with a lot of zest for life. She found utmost happiness in the little things around her such as - looking at the sparrow mom feeding her babies in the backyard.. she was so happy to walk around the lake near her house, because the shape of the lake resembled how India will be on a map!

My fondest memories with her are our joint study sessions in her house. her mom will cook our favourite snacks :) We will chat about our lecturers, the shop which sells the best chaat, the movie that has our favourite hero and pretty much everything other than studies..

and even after we grew up and had our own children who turned to teenagers, we continued to talk fondly only about those things..:)

She lived her life a certain way by choice and was hardly ever influenced by others' opinions or choices.

When the tumor took control of her, she fought bravely against all odds and outdid the scary timelines the doctors set for her! She is not someone who will be bogged down by setbacks.. rather someone who will be motivated by it and succeed. Thats why she was able to fight for so long..

she couldn't have done it without her son, her husband, her parents or her siblings. She couldn't have done it without all of you, dear friends of Haripriya, who have gathered here to give her a final send off..

our conversations in the last few months were only about her son who she was worried about, like all moms.. and about her husband and parents whose support she will never be able to give back.. and the gratitude she has for the community who stood by her..during this difficult journey.

Haripriya, you have touched our lives in a unique way and I will never be able to fill your place in my heart. I love you always. Rest in peace, my friend. ❤️
