“ Though I didn't know you growing up Nick, I knew your mother. I remember when your mother was pregnant with you and met you a few times as an infant. Your mother and I grew up together and were best friends back in the days.... What I read about you it sounds like you were a lot like you mom. I am sure you are going to be missed by many and the lives you impacted I know your mom would have been very proud you left a legacy. I am sure you dad is just as proud.

“ Nick was the love of my life and best friend. Our relationship was as rocky as justin and selena, but our love for eachother was real. I will never forget meeting you in zoology class. Our first time hanging out was by chance. I had an extra ticket to paul watson and no one to go with. That night leaving i wanted to hold your hand so badly. Through almost 10 years we traveled many places together catching tortoises and anoles. Its hard thinking the other week watching insidious 4 and swimming at your apartment would be our last times together. It hurts more that you were so close to so many good things in life. Your degree, your finaces, your life. I wish you had won your battle

“ Mario, There are no words to say. There is no reason why a parent has to go through what you are going through. There is nothing but time right now. Time for your heart to heal. Time for you to remember. Time for you to tell all of Nicks great stories that will keep his memories alive forever. Please know that our thoughts and prayers are with you, Kim Adams Elan' Spa & Hair

“ Nick...the memories are endless. I can't even believe I'm posting this, & not laughing through them with you 💔 I remember one of the best ones I continue to laugh at. It was the time we all went to the beach, and I don't know what was more hilarious.... The fact you had my lip plumper on, from when you shared my drink, the fact we went into a creepy funhouse & we lost the exist, or when we initially lost your car...which was in an entirely different parking lot. Oh, nick. That was a day to remember. Not only did you bring a lot of laughs to each one of us, but you were there for people when they needed you the most. I remember when I was at my worst, & I didn't think my sister would make it out of the hospital. I broke down crying hysterically, & I remember your tight hug, the kiss on my forehead, & your words: "don't you shed one more tear. Your sister is an incredibly strong person, & so are you. You'll get through this." I will forever remember that moment. Every day is so much harder without you. We're unlucky to have had to say goodbye to you, but we're luckier, because we all had someone who made saying goodbye, so hard. Rest easy 💚💔

“ Nick was one of my best friends that I met while I started to work at ihop. We immediately became close and our friendship got closer as the years went by. We had our differences but we were always a call away. He was a great friend, but most importantly, a brother. I loved nicks personality, his intelligence, his ability to make people around him smile. He was a great guy. You will be grestly missed brother. Rest in peace.

“ Nick in high school, you were an amazing friend. Having online classes with Mr. Kunkle. And everything since that small time. You saved me so many times from myself even after high school. After Payton was born I feel on some hard times and you somehow helped me, even from what felt like a million miles away, find my way. You were always so kind and encouraging and almost knew me better than I knew myself at times. You were an angel in disguise I'm just so sorry we never got the chance to catch up like we always talked about. God definitely took an angel, and I know you will always be looking out for everyone you cared for.

“ Aaaahhhhhh.....Nick, so much to be said about Nick. He was always smiling, can never keep on all four feet in a chair on the floor, super smart, and willing to debate anything that's Nick 😊 all the memories going through my mind now some of the ones that stick out were Saint Patrick's Day 2014 we had a wild one all the way back then, to something more recent like thinking we were near cow pasture and going to tip cows and finding out there wild buffalo!! There will never be a friend like Nick.....

Jordan Leigh - January 30, 2018 at 01:12 PM

“ Nick was our neighbor as he was growing up in Spooner. Always such a kind, gentle and friendly kid. His love for animals, reptiles and birds were evident and was happy to teach you something about them. We are deeply saddened for you all. We will remember Nick as we saw him most with a big smile and wave.

“ Mr. Montaini I am so very sorry for your loss. I met Nick at Gateway and he made such an impression on me! He was so very smart which everyone always remarked on but what I remember the most was his kindness. He always had a kind word or a word of encouragement for people. May God grant you peace and healing during this time of heartache. God bless you,
