“ What wonderful memories I have with the Tomaka family visits and overnights. Both the Greenfield and Tomaka families loved spending time together as their kids were growing. So many laughs! Now Tom, Pat and my dad John are together agina.

“ As a child growing up in California, I would only see Tom a few times a year normally around the holidays. One of my oldest and fondest memories of Tom was this neat party trick that he would perform with his thumb. He would cover his thumb on one hand and it would give the illusion that he could detach and reattach it to the other hand. I always looked forward to seeing him perform this trick, and I was super intrigued for the longest time as to how he did it.

I also stayed with Tom and Pat for a few months in 2007 when I moved to Chicagoland. They helped me out a bunch in getting established, and I have great memories from that time.
